Webseminar Recordings on Intersectional Feminist Approach now Available on YouTube

In case you missed the first two webseminar of the 'Implementing an Intersectional Feminism Approach' series organized by WIDE+ and the Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung. You can view the recording: the Intergenerational Feminist Dialogue. It was an insightful conversation between young feminists, Twasiima Birgirwa, from FRIDA and Marlize Andre, from International Women Space, and the eminent feminist mentor Srilatha Batliwala from CREA. The event was moderated by Silke Steinhilber, WIDE+ member and also an activist researcher on transformative feminist policies.

You can view the recording: Racism, Classism and Gender discrimination intersectional feminist approach in strategy and analysis. This seminar provided a deep and diverse reflection from Eleonora Roldán Mendivil who is a political scientist, educator and journalist based in Germany working on racism, sexism, and class; Vashti Rebong, leader of the “Forging Intersectional Feminist Futures (FIFF)” at International Women’s Rights Action Watch Asia Pacific (IWRAP-Asia Pacific); Farah Salka, Executive Director of the Anti-Racism Movement in Lebanon and Ruth Pión, an Afro-Caribbean activist, researcher in anthropology and co-founder of the anti-racist and decolonial collective Junta de Prietas. It was moderated by Jelena Lenggenhager, experienced moderator and teacher, caucus member of WIDE+, and board member of WIDE Switzerland.

"We Want Real Zero Emissions": Statement on COP26 by Alianza Por La Solidaridad (in Spanish)

After a week of negotiations at the 26th Conference of Parties to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change in Glasgow, Scotland, or known as COP26, there have not been any real commitments to reducing emissions, and on the contrary, financing of fossil fuels continues. Isabel Iparraguirre, coordinator of Ecological Transition and Innovation at Alianza Por La Solidaridad-Action Aid, points out that efforts appear to be a "greenwashing operation". Read Alianza's full statement (in Spanish) on COP26 here.

New publication "Gender, Climate and Biodiversity" (in Dutch)

WIDE+ member WO=MEN has published with ActionAid, BothENDS and WECF this report that provides recommendations for the Dutch government on how to engender climate justice policies: <https://www.wo-men.nl/kb-bestanden/1635779670.pdf>.

New Podcast series Women Resisting Violence in Latin America, starting today

Latin America Bureau and King's College London release today a brand new podcast series, based on Latin American women's extraordinary experiences of supporting one another and mitigating gender-based violence in Guatemala, Brazil and the UK. WIDE+ member Patricia Muñoz Cabrera is part of the organizing committee.

Latin America has one of the highest rates of violence against women and femicide in the world. This incidence has increased during the coronavirus pandemic. Latin American women's organisations are actively resisting and mitigating this violence with multiple strategies. Through collective action they commemorate the dead and care for the living, through arts they draw attention, through protest and lobbying they denounce and forge change.

The podcast will be available in English, Spanish, and Portuguese on all podcast platforms.

GENERAL NEWS

Feminists, Indigenous Activists from the Global South Excluded From COP26

Peasant women, together with environmental defenders and climate activists, join the Global Day of Action for Climate Justice in the Philippines on November 6

Feminists and grassroots women were excluded at the COP26, according to the Asia Pacific Forum on Women, Law and Development (APWLD). Due to strict restrictions in entering the UK, notably restrictions on approved vaccines, many feminist organizations from the Global South have been unable to join the summit. This restriction ignores vaccine inequity which has been entrenched by the neoliberal capitalistic system that has enabled richer countries in having greater access to vaccines. Read APWLD's full statement here.

Gender Based Violence in Supply Chains, webinar by Action Aid

80 percent of all female workers in Bangladesh's textile industry experience violence at work. Unfortunately, such percentages are the rule rather than the exception in the production chains of our clothing and utensils. In an interactive ActionAid webinar, our international colleagues provide insights and recommendations. It is led by Britt Myren of Atria, with guest speakers Laura Hurtado, director of ActionAid Guatemala, and Juvience Chalwe of Green & Justice from Zambia.

Date and time: Tuesday December 7, 19.30 CET

A Feminist Plan for Sustainability and Social Justice by UN Women

"The clearest lesson from COVID-19 is that only global solidarity and cooperation is going to get us out of the pandemic. The global community needs to share vaccines, cancel debt and end illicit financial flows, so that we can fairly redistribute resources, and finance essential social protection, public services and labour market measures for gender-just reform and recovery."

BUSI SIBEKO, Economist, Institute for Economic Justice, South Africa

Taken from the report, "Beyond COVID-19: A Feminist Plan for Sustainability and Social Justice", page 16

The 'Feminist Plan' maps the ambitious and transformative policies on livelihoods, care, and the environment that are needed to build a more equal and sustainable future. The plan
